The Committee vote was 13-8, with three Republicans voting yes. Senate Majority Leader Daschle, dissatisfied with the child care funding, voted no. The proposed WORK Act has several provisions opposed by the Bush Administration, including an average work week of 30 hours (rather than 40 hours) for most recipients. Health and Human Services Secretary Tommy Thompson has warned that the White House would consider extending the $16.5 billion block grant for one year rather than accepting what it considered to be a bad bill. It would raise work participation requirements to 70 by FY2007 and increase required weekly work hours for most recipients (from a general 30-hour rule).
